SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 25      SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI      TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1937      NUMBER 69

THE P. C. EDITOR SAYS—

Rev. Ellis preached a mighty good sermon to the graduating class Sunday as well as to the splendid audience assembled in the High School auditorium. Dr. Lee followed with another wonderful address Monday evening when the diplomas were presented. Both were full of wisdom and good advice. The Standard editor is going to give a little advice too, to this wonderful class of young men and young women, and that is: Many of you will seek homes or employment in other cities, towns, or communities, and your environment in your new surroundings will mean your success or failure. The best people in any community are those who attend church and there you will meet a welcome and friends for the future. Saloons, road houses and pool hall acquaintances will be a hindrance instead of an asset. It is up to you. Take your choice.

Joe T. Lovett, publisher of The Ledger and Times, of Murray, Ky., was a Sikeston visitor Saturday and honored The Standard office with a visit. He was looking over newspaper offices in Southeast Missouri as well as our splendid farm lands.

Friday forenoon one of our local preachers called at The Standard office to give the editor a going-over about a paragraph appearing in the issue of that date. We have no apology to make for the paragraph, for it was true. This man Leiske, lecturer or preacher, is as smart as chain lightning and seems to know his Bible forwards and backwards. We are not a Seventh Day Adventist and have never heard him talk in his tabernacle, have not contributed a penny to his support and he has paid for bacon and beans for us. The ministers of this city should not get exercised about what he puts in his advertisements and pays for, but go ahead and preach the gospel as they interpret it and let it go at that. So far as we are personally concerned what we print in our editorial paragraphs is what we think at the time of writing and never expected for many to agree with us and didn't, and don't, give a d whether anyone likes it or not. While this preacher came to give us the going-over we believe we gave him a plenty and told him while Sikeston church organizations gave The Standard office the cold shoulder with anything that paid, we got a plenty without pay and glad to print. Whenever we have to join a church and live a hypocrite to get their work we will starve and go to the devil. It has been our aim to try to be of service to the community, build up the morals, fight the things unfit for the welfare of the young people, pay our bills, help those in distress, live right ourselves, and in this we are happy and believe in ourself of no one else does.

The Standard editor visited the Catholic Church at New Hamburg Saturday forenoon to see the wonderful hand-carving contained therein. We regretted to note the rains had beaten in at the window sills and injured the walls to some extent. This is one of the noted Catholic churches of this section as it was built of native timber and the carving was done by artisans who came from Germany for this special job.

The Sunset addition colored school had their closing exercises Friday night with a program of songs and orations. The class of the eighth grade who received diplomas delivered by C. L. Blanton, Sr., consisted of Emma L. Brownlee, Stacy Brownlee, Lola Vryle Campbell, Ardella Gay, Elvora F. Jemerson and Marion L. St. Clair. The faculty of this school consisted of C. Madison, C. L. Vaughn and I. B. Huddlestone. The program given was very fine and given to a packed house.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Matthews entertained Mrs. A. Y. Scales at dinner Monday.

Rev. D. D. Ellis Delivers Commencement Sermon

"Chose you this day whom you will serve," was the text used by the Rev. D. D. Ellis in his commencement sermon to the 1937 graduating class of Sikeston high school in the auditorium Sunday morning.

In a brief but forceful sermon Rev. Ellis told the members of the graduating class that they had now reached a point in life where they would have to make their own choices instead of relying on parents and teachers. He reminded them that life worth while is a life of service. He pictured their futures as a series of important choices which they must make, and which in turn would form habits that would either strengthen or weaken them depending upon the choice made.

The stage was beautifully decorated by members of the junior class. School officials, local ministers and the Choir were seated on the stage and the 72 members of the class, after marching in followed by the robed Choir were seated at the front of the auditorium. The eighth grade graduates were seated at the front of the section of seats in the back of the auditorium.

The program opened with a prelude, "Ave Maria," by the high school orchestra under the direction of Reid Jann. Following the Processional by the Choir, the Class and the eighth grade, the invocation was given by Rev. R. M. Talbert. The scripture reading by Rev. V. F. Oglesby followed a number, "Listen to the Lambs," by the Choir under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Young. Another song by the Choir, "Hallelujah Chorus," preceded the sermon by Rev. D. D. Ellis, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Following the Doxology by the congregation the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. F. Transue. Rev. E. H. Orear was seated on the stage with other ministers, Supl. Roy V. Ellis and Prin. Wm. Mahew. Mary Jane Sikes and Eleanor Harty were accompanists for the Processional and numbers by the Choir.

Farmers From 13 Counties Attend 3-Day Demonstration

More than 300 farmers and county agents from 13 counties in Southeast Missouri attended the six sessions of a three day demonstration school conducted at the Sikeston experimental farm, three miles north of Sikeston, by Missouri University soil experts Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week.

J. Ross Fleetwood, extension specialist in field crops from the University of Missouri, conducted the school with the help of O. T. Coleman, specialist in soils at the University, and H. H. Krusekopf, professor of soils, and B. M. King, professor of field crops at the University, and supervisors of the farm. Carl Luper is the resident farm manager.

The Sikeston experimental farm, one of six in the state, contains 55 acres and has been operating since 1930. Quite a bit of the work this year is with test plots of various types and varieties of spring and winter, bearded and beardless wheat, rye, oats and barley in an effort to determine which varieties are best suited to the soils and climate in this section of Missouri.

About 35 attended the Wednesday morning session which was held for farmers and agriculturists of Scott County. Approximately the same number attended the afternoon session conducted for farmers from Pemiscot and Dunklin Counties. Eighty-five attended the Thursday morning session for New Madrid, Ste. Genevieve, and Perry Counties, and 90 the afternoon session for Butler, Stoddard, Madison and Bollinger Counties. At the Cape Girardeau, Ripley and Mississippi County session held Friday afternoon about 90 farmers attended.

As explained by Mr. Fleetwood most of the farm experimental work is done at the University of Missouri in connection with the School of Agriculture and the function of the six experimental farms is primarily in testing various varieties of crops, fertilizer treatments and crop rotation in the different soil and climate conditions over the state.

Quite a bit of experimenting is done at the Sikeston farm for the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture.

One of the projects being carefully studied at the farm is the development of a successful winter oat which will mature early enough to prevent the usual loss due to the hot dry weather of early summer, and which will also be better for the coming pasture crop due to the early harvesting.

Mr. Fleetwood stated that an early beardless barley was proving to be a permanent nurse crop in connection with legume pasture and hay crops due to its early harvesting. Michigan and Kentucky bearded barley are proving outstanding for this region and W. H. Sikes, Sikeston farmer, is having success with Abruzzi and Balbo, two Italian ryes, as pasture crops in this section.

A subterranean clover which may prove to be a good preventer of soil erosion but certainly presents a problem in propagation since its seeds are developed under the ground is being experimented with on the Sikeston farm.

Mr. Fleetwood left for Poplar Bluff immediately following the Friday afternoon session and planned to make stops in Ripley and Iron Counties before returning to Columbia.

Wrestle Royal Booked For Wednesday Night

Mike Meroney is offering something different in the way of wrestling entertainment at the Armory next Wednesday night when he turns five belligerent mat-men loose in the ring in a playful little game of the survival of the fittest, or perhaps "fittens" is the word.

The combatants will be Joe Washburn, New York, 189 pounds; Joe Dillman, Greece, 194 pounds; Lee Meyers, Dallas, 190 pounds; Bill Collins, Houston, 196 pounds; and last and least, Floyd Byrd, Birmingham, 174 pounds. If your reporter is any good at figures this is almost a thousand pounds of bone and muscle and whatever it takes to put on the kind of a show these men specialize in for the amusement of the public, to say nothing of the referee, who, if he follows our advice will do his refereeing by remote control.

The last two men left in the ring will wrestle two out of three falls with a 90 minute time limit.

He was graduated two years ago from Charleston High School, and has hundreds of friends and acquaintances. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wilson formerly of Sikeston. The family is now living in Jefferson City where "T. A." is employed by the Missouri State Highway Department. Hardwick is expected home soon to spend a few vacation weeks.

Resettlement Advisor Outlines Plan of Administration

O. B. Dryden, regional information advisor from the regional office of the Resettlement Administration at Indianapolis, Ind., was in Sikeston last week conferring with community resettlement manager, Hans H. Baasch, concerning the proposed resettlement projects in this district.

At the present time Mr. Baasch is working on resettlement projects in New Madrid and Mississippi Counties and is investigating proposed projects in Butler and Pemiscot Counties. The Resettlement Program has met with some opposition in this section due to a misconception that people will be brought in from cities and other regions to be settled on the land. The program as Mr. Baasch outlined it proposes to establish and guide the people of the immediate vicinity in an improved method of farming.

The 5000 acres in the LaForge area in New Madrid County has already been accepted and the work is being delayed until all titles to the land can be cleared.

Mr. Dryden explained that the Resettlement Administration, which has been made a branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has a program divided into three phases. The first is the Rehabilitation Loan Program or Rural Rehabilitation which makes small, short time loans, averaging from $200 to $500 per farmer for periods of five years or less at 5 per cent interest. Farm and home management helps are also given along with the loan. There are approximately 10,000 of these loans in Missouri now. Also under this branch of the program grants are sometimes made in cases of emergency.

The second phase of the Resettlement Administration is one of Land Utilization and embraces the acquiring of land in non-agricultural areas where investigation proves the land not to be profitable for farming. There are two of these in Missouri at the present time. One of 2000 acres near Salem known as Merimac Forest and the other a tract of sub-marginal land south of Columbia which is to be used by the University of Missouri as a reserve for an outdoor laboratory to study plant and animal life.

The third phase of the Resettlement Administration is known as the Resettlement Program and is the branch that is being tried in the Southeast Missouri projects. Mr. Dryden explained that the whole idea and program was rather broad and novel in conception and still in the experimental stages.

Miss Marian Sample Gives Luncheon For Miss Prather

Mrs. Robert Mow, Jr., of this city and Miss Marcia Weber of Bloomfield, attended a bridge luncheon at the Alvarado in Cape Girardeau Saturday, given by Miss Marian Sample in compliment to Miss Neldo Prather of Advance, whose marriage to Chester Brown of East St. Louis, Ill., will be an early summer event. Lovely corsages were presented to the honoree and two other prospective brides, Miss Marcia Weber who will marry Kendall Sikes of Sikeston, and Miss Virginia Williams of Cape Girardeau whose engagement to Bob Lampkin of Cape Girardeau has been announced.

H. Keasler Opens New Electrical Appliance Shop

H. Keasler, formerly associated with the Butz Sales Company, has put in an electrical appliance shop on Kingshighway just south of the Sikeston Standard office in the space formerly occupied by the office of T. A. Slack.

He has already installed a complete line of Kelvinators, electric gas stoves, Electroluxes and various laundry equipment. Mr. Keasler is well known around Sikeston as having been connected with this line of work for several years.

Mr. Butz has moved to Cape Girardeau and is no longer in business in Sikeston.

William McCoy returned to his home in Eldorado, Ill., Saturday morning, after visiting his sister, Mrs. Lary oPwell. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Powell, who will visit relatives there for several weeks.

Kewanee Baptist Church Will Be Dedicated May 30

Dedication services will be held Sunday, May 30, at the new Baptist Church at Kewanee.

The building was completed last winter and used for the first time for services on Sunday, February 28. For two weeks prior it was used to house flood refugees.

The church was organized last September and is pastored by Rev. W. S. Gordon of Poplar Bluff, who conducts services every second and fourth Sunday. Along with the pastor, the church is served by three deacons, J. T. Gunn, Carl Gunn and J. L. McVey.

Mrs. Nellie Estes Honored By Sunday School Class

Members of the Deborah Sunday school class of the Baptist Church surprised Mrs. Nellie Estes, Monday, with a covered dish luncheon at the C. M. Taylor home on Franklin. The occasion was the birth anniversary of Mrs. Estes. Twelve members and several guests were present at the affair.

MILLERS LOSE TO ILLMO IN 10 INNING GAME

The Sikeston Millers met their first reverse of the season 10 to 8 on the local field Sunday afternoon at the hands of the Illmo Bucs in a ten-inning encounter marred by errors on both sides.

Alexander and Eaton was the battery for Sikeston and Hall and Shipman for Ilmo. The Bucs found Alexander for 9 hits while the Millers got 6 off Hall.

The Miller infield seemed to need strengthening in several spots and it is reported that Ralph Hudson will be on second base when they go to Farmington next Friday night to play their first night game. Alexander will pitch again and either Eaton or Byron Bowman will do the catching. On next Sunday the Millers will meet the Bernie team at Sikeston.

The line-up for Sikeston included J. Marshall, F. Kindred, J. Eaton, H. Stacy, R. Sherry, Brown, J. Rogers, P. Marshall, J. Law, De Priest, Alexander and Dowdy; for Ilmo-Cokenour, R. Bray, B. Bray, Hanks, Templeton, Shipman, Sarff, Huber, Hall and P. Bray.

Morehouse Girl Drowned In Lake At Keener Cave

Emily Rebecca Gunterman 16 years old, was drowned Friday afternoon when she stepped into deep water in Keener Cave, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff, while wading in a small lake with other Morehouse High School pupils on a school picnic. She was a daughter of Mrs. Zora

Gray, Ben Bowman, Gene Struwe and J. M. Sitzes.

The play was directed by Miss Frances Burch and Glenn S. Duncan with the help of boys from the Manual Training Department designed and constructed the stage set.

Jesse Cotton, stage manager, had as his assistants James Bryant, Leo Cook and Clay Taylor. The furniture was furnished by the Dempster Furniture Company. Between the acts several musical numbers were given by the boys' quartet under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Young. Members of the quartet are James Lewis, John Dover, Bill Van Horne and Eddie Orear.

Two young men from near Matthews were injured, one of them critically, in a cutting affray that took place near Matthews in the back of a pick-up truck early Saturday night. The boys, George Lahue about 25 years old and a younger brother, were brought to the office of Dr. T. C. McClure about 10 o'clock Saturday night for treatment, and George was later taken to the St. Francis Hospital at Cape Girardeau in the Welsh ambulance. He was deeply cut in the left side of the abdomen and some of the intestines and the colon were slashed. He was also cut on the arm and other parts of the body.

The younger brother was also cut about the abdomen but not so severely and he was not taken to the hospital. Following his examination Dr. McClure was doubtful of the recovery of the older brother. A report from the hospital Monday morning revealed that he was still alive and that there was little change one way or the other in his condition.

Very little was learned about how the fight started but it is reported that one of the brothers was fighting in the back of the truck with a man by the name of Henry, when the other brother saw that he was using a butcher knife and tried to help his brother out. The boys are sons of W. Lahue who is a farmer on Route 3 out of Matthews.

George Lahue is reported to have said that he had been cut several times in fighting scrapes but never as badly as this time. City officials and Highway Patrol officers said Monday that no report of the disturbance had been recorded and no arrests made.

Col. Art Goebel, Sky-Writer Leaves For Eastern Tour

Col. Art Goebel, the first man to fly across the Pacific Ocean, now sky-writer for the Phillips Oil Corporation of Bartlesville, Okla., who has been headquartered in Sikeston since last Friday, was to leave Monday to fill appointments at Caruthersville, Blytheville, Ark., Piggott, Jonesboro, Union City, Tenn., Mayfield, Paducah, and Louisville, Ky., before continuing on his eastward tour through Illinois.

Col. Goebel started to leave Sikeston Sunday afternoon but when he got as far south as Clarkton encountered such dense clouds that he turned back. His radio operator kept in constant touch with him by radio from the time he encountered the clouds until he returned to the Sikeston field.

Goebel was especially impressed with the Sikeston field and considers it one of the best natural landing fields he has seen.

On last Friday night he was a guest of H. C. Simpson of Charleston at the Colonial Tavern in Cape Girardeau. Frank J. Noon and Jimmy Matthews from the Sikeston Highway Office were guests at the dinner where Col. Goebel discussed the future of aviation and the airplane industry.

Col. Goebel did some sky-writing over Sikeston Friday and again at noon Sunday. He writes at an elevation of about 8000 feet and the letters are 2000 feet in length. He is one of the very few in the sky-writing business and he has been in the business for the past five years.

The plane with which Col. Goebel does his writing has a unique appearance, being very short and of unusual wing spread. It was built especially for him by the Phillips Corporation and is a Boeing Pursuit, one-place plane with a 450 horse power motor, which lands at a speed of 90 miles per hour. It is equipped with sending as well as receiving radio apparatus.

In addition to being the first man to fly the Pacific Ocean Col. Goebel at one time held the westward. He started his career east transcontinental speed record. He started his career as a motorcycle racer and following the war was a stunt flier for the movies. In experimenting with a diesel type plane he once crashed in Texas and was laid up in the hospital for 47 weeks.

Mr. Ward said the man picked him and his daughter up and took them home and when he got out the man drove on off with his daughter. The man was driving a model A Ford coupe.

"Jonesy," Senior Play Superior Production

"A superior piece of work," from the standpoint of staging and make-up as well as acting, seemed to be the general opinion of those attending the senior play, "Jonesy," presented last Thursday night at the high school auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones, played by John Webster Bowman and Eleanor Harty, were especially good in their characterizations and Selma Becker and Wilbur Jones in a very creditable manner. Other members of the cast more than adequate in their parts, were Lois Habs, Nancy Ann Ponder, Marvin Rayburn, Charles Tisdell, J. T. Singleton, Hazel

A trailer city will be established at the State Fair Grounds at Sedalia. During the Fair and the charge will be $1.00 per day for each trailer home.

There will be an amateur dancing contest at the State Fair at Sedalia August 21-28 to which all leg shakers and foot slapping folks are invited to enter. No holds nor age barred.

The editor of the country newspaper went home to dinner smiling radiantly. "You must have had some good fortune this morning," greeted his wife. "Indeed I did," announced the editor. "Jim Smith, who hasn't paid his subscription for 10 years, came in and stopped his paper."—Chic Keller.

The Cape Girardeau News takes a crack at The Standard editor for objecting to union labor in the Sikeston branch of the International Shoe Co., which is all right for the editor of that sheet to do so. If we thought a union in a country city would benefit the workers and the merchants we would be for it, but we see no benefit to be derived and the factory to be shut down. If they did organize, Cape Girardeau had a taste of that sort of interference once upon a time and to this day the full working force has never been reinstated. Cape has many more families that would be on relief than Sikeston if a set-down strike was ordered, and who would benefit? No one.

We felt like puking a few days ago after reading the summary of a report made by a bunch of Representatives called an investigation committee. This committee filed a report in which a public official was highly complimented who took 80 cents out of every dollar of other peoples money and paid to people who didn't pay it in. If Insurance Commissioner O'Malley had given all of the huge sum in his custody to people who hadn't contributed a dime toward building it up, Mr. Webster's wordbook would doubtless have proved wholly inadequate for the Committee to have expressed its adoration of him and his act. If Governor Stark doesn't let Commissioner O'Malley, who is so lavish with policy holders money, out of office as soon as he gets around to him he is going to disappoint the Democrats of this county who, in convention assembled last year heartily endorsed the state administration "save and except, the Fire Insurance Compromise" that O'Malley recommended.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

When we get to preaching we are going to try to stick to the job for which we were ordained and lay off the poor editors who have no more sense than to print what they think and what they please under their own masthead. To be sure to preach the Bible to the best of ones ability to interpret, is at times tiresome and a little personal lambasting may add to the gaiety of the occasion.

State Legislative Notes

Missouri had forty-six new laws on its statute books in the closing days of May, that number having received the official approval of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark after passing both branches of the 59th General Assembly. Five other proposed laws, one House and four Senate bills, have been vetoed by the chief executive after going through the legislative hopper, while a number of other measures approved by the Legislature are now on the Governor's desk awaiting his signature or rejection.

Final adjournment of the Legislature by late this month or early in June became more certain recently when the Senate passed the 2-cent sales tax bill that had already received approval of the House. The upper chamber attached several amendments to the measure which must be acted upon by the lower legislative branch before the bill can be sent to Governor Stark for his signature. The measure carries an emergency clause making it effective when approved by the chief executive. Its sponsors expect it to go into effect June 1.

By a vote of 77 to 8 the House has passed and sent to the Governor a Senate bill to give members of the State Highway Patrol a 10 per cent increase in salary at the end of five years of satisfactory service. The measure is held to be necessary to keep the efficiency of the patrol at a high level, since it will furnish an incentive to members to devote the best years of their lives to the service of the state, as well as more adequately reward them for faithful performance of their strenuous and dangerous duties.

which would have restored the so-called "shotgun motion" procedure for new trials in criminal cases. Under present procedure motions for a new trial in criminal cases must set forth in detail and with particularity the allegations of error. The "shotgun" motion as used prior to 1925 when the new law was enacted merely provided for motions for new trials to set out general allegations of error from which the defense lawyers could select the points to be relied upon in appeals. A like bill was vetoed by Governor Park in the preceding state administration.

A bill restoring the office of county treasurer in Missouri counties with a population of under 40,000 inhabitants has passed both branches of the Assembly and is now on the chief executive's desk. The Governor has indicated that he would sign the bill, which becomes effective thereon. The bill provides that the Governor shall appoint a treasurer in each of the 74 counties affected by the bill to serve until the next general election.

The House by an overwhelming vote has approved a Senate bill providing for the carrying out of all death sentences with lethal gas at the state penitentiary in Jefferson City. The measure is now before the Governor and his approval of same is anticipated.

The State Senate has rejected a proposed constitutional amendment introduced in the House providing that the sheriffs and coroners of counties may succeed themselves in office. The proposal was defeated on the theory that the officers would be able to build up formidable political machines if allowed to succeed themselves.

Nine Senate bills, only one of a major nature, have been signed recently by Governor Stark and will become effective in ninety days following adjournment of the Legislature. The most important of the number is the state driver's license law, which the Governor congratulated the Assembly on passing. Other approved measures provide for the appointment of a state entomologist instead of a state plant officer by the commissioner of agriculture; require notices of suits on special tax bills in St. Joseph to be filed within ten days with the city engineer; require inspection of hogs by a government brand inspector before they can be shipped across county lines in free range counties; provide small increases in the salaries of county clerks throughout the state; provide that suits against municipal corporations shall be commenced only in the county in which such city is located; provide for the compulsory education of deaf children; authorize slight increases in the salaries of probation officers in counties between 50,000 and 90,000 population, and provide that school fund depositories may be chosen without advertising for bids and without requiring payment of interest.

Revision of Missouri's probation and parole system is proposed in a bill which already passed the House and is now before the Senate for consideration. Under the bill, functions now performed by the Commissioners of the Department of Penal Institutions would be transferred to a newly created Board of Probation and Parole, comprised of the Lieutenant Governor and two other members, who would be appointed by the Governor.

In New London a certain brand of gasoline is being offered for sale, but others who sell no better gas get the bulk of the business. We are wondering if the slow sale of this gas is due to the fact that the producers do not advertise their product. Not long since a nationally known brand of gasoline was discarded in this city because the company could not see its way clear to advertise it. Most any brand of gasoline is good today—that is, any brand that is nationally known—but it takes advertising to get the folks to remember who sells it.—New London Record.

Judging from press reports of the Southern Baptist Convention last week, this great denomination, of which the writer is a member, is dedicating its efforts to the suppression of smoking. At any rate, we read a lengthy article about the condemnation of this evil, together with drinking, and saw nothing about the real and supposedly popular purpose of a church, the preaching of religion. Of course this is a greatly exaggerated idea of what the Southern Baptist convention actually did. But if time was really taken to debate the smoking evil, and to go on record as opposing it, the prestige of the entire organization suffered. We cannot say anything favorable about smoking, other than that it is not as direct a path to the grave as once it was thought to be. It is a habit, expensive and very hard to break, with little to justify it. Condemning it will merely advertise it and create a new desire for it, and we hate to see great church organizations include it in their aims to spread Christianity.—Shelbina Democrat.

CRITICIZES GRAND JURY

"When I read Judge Kelly's instruction to the grand jury, I heartily agreed with him and what did they do?"

"A year ago the grand jury didn't do anything because some of their good friends had and were operating slot machines. They said you surely wouldn't prosecute one of your good friends. Spineless!"

"Now, our new grand jury says we couldn't find enough violators to pay to prosecute."

"I suppose they believe in mass prosecution. So, I guess the public must wait until a hundred or so violate the law before anything is done."

"Well, since economy is the watch word, maybe it would be better to wait for more violators and prosecute the whole mass at one time."

"I know that the best element of our citizenry wants these machines put out of the way and the jury could have gotten all the evidence they wanted if they would have gone after it."

"Do they want us to raise up a generation of gamblers? That's what we are starting."

"As to comparing the bridge party prizes with the slot machines, I see a great difference."

"Would they class our athletic contests as gambling?"

"I say, no, because there is a great difference. Still they play for trophies."

"There is only one conclusion the public can come to: The jury was spineless and weak in the knees. I hope we can pick a jury soon that will cooperate with Judge Kelly."

"Congratulations, Judge Kelly, on your instruction to the jury."

—A. G. Trickey in Jackson Post.

SOME SUGGESTIONS ON PASTURE MANAGEMENT

New Madrid County livestock farmers who depend on permanent pasture to carry the stock during part of the year are now planning supplementary seedings on which to turn the stock during the hot summer months when the permanent pastures run low.

Assistant County Agent Lane suggests the following possibilities that may help you with your planning.

1. Korean lespedeza grown alone or in combination with small grain. If grown with small grain, the lespedeza can be harvested as much as 30 days by cutting the small grain in the dough stage for hay instead of permitting it to mature grain. This is especially true of lespedeza in oats. For the stock to relish lespedeza most, they should be turned on when the lespedeza is three to four inches high or as soon thereafter as possible. We seldom turn on lespedeza too early. More often it is too late to get the most grazing and to have the stock relish it fully.

If despite this grazing the lespedeza attains a growth of six to eight inches by the last week in July, it may help the lespedeza and surely will boost the hay supply to cut it for hay right then. Waiting later to cut often hampers the lespedeza in its comeback.

2. Sudan, drilled at 25 to 30 pounds per acre or sown broadcast and disked in lightly on a good, firm, weed-free seed-bed and later part of May or first of June usually will bear a heavy load of grazing throughout the hot months.

Both these crops offer the means of keeping off the permanent pasture through the hot dry summer months when it needs such relief badly and when it furnishes the least feed. They usually will supply abundant grazing up to frost by which time barley, rye or wheat can be used for fall grazing.

Another timely pasture practice is clipping the weeds early in June. By mowing when the weeds are in the bud or early bloom stage, you are hitting 'em when it hurts 'em most. And surely there is no reason for showing weeds any mercy.

RIVER OFFICIALS O. K. FERRY AT BELMONT

By Joe Curtis
After inspecting the motor-powered ferry Ky.-Ill., operated from Columbus, Ky., across the Mississippi River to Belmont, Mo., by Capt. George Muskovalov of Charleston, Mo., U. S. Steamboat Inspectors J. Benton Wyckoff and Dr. John B. Houston have returned to their Memphis headquarters. They found the little boat in good condition.

Columbus is about 40 miles down the river from Cairo, near where the clear water from the Ohio River starts mixing with the mud-colored water in the Mississippi. From Columbus to the mouth of the Ohio, the waters are distinctly separated by almost a straight line. Suddenly they start getting together and two miles down from Columbus the Mississippi seems to have absorbed the Ohio's clear water.

Opposite Columbus is Belmont, Mo., once a busy place for the oldtime river packets. It also has considerable Civil War history because the first battle along the Mississippi south of Cairo was fought between the Federals and Confederates right here. Belmont's dooryard, the Confederates forcing the Union forces to retreat. The first shells from Grant's fleet of Mississippi River gunboats were thrown into Belmont in retaliation for the Confederate victory. However, the Confederate batteries posted on the bluffs back of old Columbus, resulted in the federal fleet making a hasty retreat up the river.

Following this fight, the Confederates at Columbus had some powerful chains forged and put together reaching from Kentucky to Missouri. Each end of the chain was attached to a mammoth anchor buried deep in the ground. It was believed by the Confederates the chain would prevent any Federal river fleet from passing down the Mississippi and it worked well enough for some time, but finally a Federal ram broke the chain and the fleet passed on, but not until the Confederates had retreated from Columbus to take new positions at Island No. 10 and Fort Pillow.

The anchor holding the chain on the Missouri side of the Mississippi can be seen in a small park at Belmont, says Captain Wyckoff. "It must weigh 500 tons," he remarked.

Soon after the Civil War, the Iron Mountain Railroad built a branch line into Belmont, and the little town at once sprang into prominence as a railroad and river shipping point. Freight originating along the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad destined for St. Louis, formerly was sent via Union City, Tenn., the Mobile & Ohio through Columbus and to Belmont, where it was taken to destination by the Iron Mountain Railroad.

The railroad operated powerful transfer boats across the river to handle the carloads of freight given them at Columbus. There were also two ferry boats operat-

Home Water Cooler Introduced

This young miss thinks it just heaps of fun drinking glassfuls of water several times a day, but mother knows it's an exceedingly healthful habit. The youngster likes to do it because she gets the water refreshingly cold directly from a new type automatically refrigerated water cooler designed for the kitchen by Frigidaire, makers of the famous refrigerator of the same name. It looks like the practice of cluttering up the food refrigerator with water bottles is going to be a thing of the past.

Washington Comment

King George and Queen Elizabeth have been duly crowned, and the tumult and the shouting ing day and night to handle other traffic.

Steamboats seldom passed Belmont without landing. The packets between Cincinnati and New Orleans delivered and accepted many tons of freight annually at Belmont.

In those years of famous sidewheel steamers, the main channel of the Mississippi River turned abruptly away from the Missouri side at the head of Belmont Bend made over toward Columbus, down the Kentucky shore not many yards off and kept this course pretty well, passing on the east side of Wolf Island until about opposite its foot, then it turned sharply toward the Missouri shore.

Belmont has stood out against all the floods of recent years. There is about as much business in Belmont today as there has been since the transferring of railroad freight ceased several years ago.

During the 1927 flood of the Mississippi, the channel in front of Columbus began eating away its embankment and, finally, the whole front part of the little city began caving in. Since that, the residential and business part of the place has been moved to the top of the bluffs, where it is safe from any high waters of the future.—Commercial Appeal.

these: it might have been. Whittier was not entirely right. The saddest words of tongue or pen are that it had to be, whether or not we wanted it that way. So far as Edward is concerned, it did not have to be. He went his own way, and secretly if not openly, the public likes him for it. The notion that the world cannot progress without the aid of some particular man is largely bunk, as is made evident by the fact that the United States elects a new president every four years. The workmen may perish, or even pass up a crown and get married, but the work goes on. If Edward sought a chance to take off his tight shoes, sit down by the kitchen stove and holler "Come in," when there is a knock at the door, nobody can blame him much for it, and unless history teaches us nothing, England will get along fairly well notwithstanding.

The Hindenburg airship explosion startled the world and confirmed many in the opinion that it was best to travel by land or water and leave the air to birds. The same line of thought no doubt prevailed when the railway train began to displace the stage coach. It used to be insisted, likewise, that steamships ought to have sails to keep them steady in a seaway and to fall back upon in case of emergency; yet few travel by stage today, steamships do not carry sails, and it would be hard to find vessel masters and seamen who would know what to do with sails, were they supplied as auxiliary equipment. The basic cause of the Hindenburg disaster probably will remain forever behind the veil, but the sort of gas used seems to have had something to do with the matter. Judgment and skill have advanced auto driving to push the button stage. Air travel will continue and at length will arrive at a like degree of perfection and safety.

The proposal to make changes in the Supreme Court still is awaiting consideration on the part of Congress. At the date of this writing there are said to be 32 in favor of the plan to make alterations in the bench, 39 against it and 24 who have not committed themselves. The quiet souls, therefore, hold the balance of power. It is a great advantage to be with those who keep their mouths shut. In the first place a man can change his mind and no one will know anything about it. Again, a person on the fence is likely to be treated politely by those on both sides of it. Finally, there is an open way whereby the fence-sitter will be assured that he will end up on the winning side. In spite of all of the foregoing, there is a crown of respect, though not always a victor's crown, for the man of whom it may be said: "There never was any doubt as to where he stood."

WPA HEAD DENIES 'LAY-OFF' ORDERED

Jefferson City, Mo., May 20.—Matthew S. Murray, State WPA Administrator, reiterated today that no "lay-off" of farmers on drought relief projects has been "ordered."

The special drought relief projects merely are "ending," he said "having carried the farmers through the winter and into a new crop year."

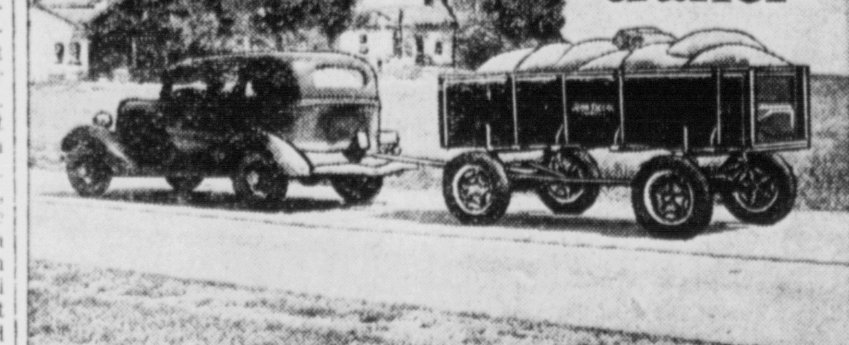

By June 1, he predicted, all projects will be completed and farmers on their special projects—already down to 4000 in number in the state from an October peak of 34,000—will all be off the state's WPA rolls.

this spot a spring of salt water was said to have welled up. Outside the Erechtheum on the west side stood the small temple of Pandrossos, a form of Mother-Earth. Within the enclosure of this little temple was the sacred olive tree produced by Athena in her contest with Poseidon. By this precious gift she vindicated her claim to possession of the city.

The thing of chief interest in this beautiful temple is the Porch of the Caryatides at the southwest corner. Six statues of virgins 7½ feet high, resting on a parapet, support the roof. The baskets on the heads of these superb statues are not unlike those borne by the girls of Athens in the frieze of the Parthenon. The latter carry sacrificial offerings in the Panathenaic procession. Beneath the Porch of the Caryatides was the tomb of Cecrops, the first king of Athens.

The second Caryatid from the left was removed by Lord Elgin to the British Museum in 1802. He also took much of the frieze of the Parthenon and many other precious monuments. The ancient philosophers of Athens taught the right of free speech, and the modern Greeks have imbibed some of their spirit. Our guides and other decriers of the idolism of Lord Elgin, and demand the return of these monuments. I was here two years ago, during the Greek revolution. The guides and others frankly expressed their sentiments on the issues of the revolution.

The Acropolis is a hard limestone plateau, nearly 900 feet long, about 600 feet wide. Its shape is oval, and extends from east to west. It was fortified nearly two millenniums before Christ. Sections of the original walls, some of them 5 feet thick, are shown to visitors on the south and east sides. The first kings and nobles lived on this rock. Remains of their palaces are seen on the north side. At the top of the precipice on the east end is a kind of uncovered balcony overlooking the plain. It is said that Pericles spent his evening here. About twelve miles to the northeast is Pentellic Quarry where the marble of the temples was quarried.

Xerxes took the Acropolis in 480 B. C., and destroyed the temples then standing. Themistocles built the north wall as it stands today, in 473 B. C. The Propylaea, was Wingless Victory, Parthenon and Erechtheum were in a state of almost perfect preservation when the Turks took the Acropolis in 1645 A. D. The Parthenon was converted into a Christian church about 500 A. D. When the Turks came they converted it into a mosque. The modern city of Athens is built about the Acropolis. New excavations are being made in many places.

At 12:30 p. m. we were driven to Grande Bretagne Hotel where a delicious lunch was served. Across the street and a block or two away from this hotel is the former palace of the kings. When the king was deposed a few years ago they converted it into the House of Parliament. During the afternoon we visited the Temple of Jupiter and other places of interest down in the city, including the great museum. The museum of the more ancient civilizations is on the Acropolis. Pottery and other exhibits in it are said to date back to 3000 B. C. It also contains beautiful jars and other exhibits taken from the ruins of ancient Troy.

After seeing Athens in a day we took our journey over the hazardous road back to the base of Elicon, on the Bay of Salamis, where tenders carried us back to the ship. At daybreak the following morning we were sailing along the coast of Asia Minor. On the starboard side is the Troad, of which Troas was the principal port. In the distance is Mount Ida, near the base of which are the ruins of ancient Troy, of wooden horse fame. On the port side, not very far away are Samothracia, Neapolis, Philippi and Thessalonica, made famous by Paul's missionary journeys. Thessalonica is now the second city of Greece. They dropped the "Thes" from the name, and now call it "Salonica."

Here at Troas Paul had a vision and received the entreaty, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us." He and Silas responded, and in the course of their ministry Paul cast a demon out of a damsel. While the damsel was demon possessed she had occult powers which her masters capitalized. Her power of divination departed with the evil spirit, and the masters' source of profit ceased. They complained to the magistrates, who flogged Paul and Silas and put them in an inner prison, and fastened their feet in stocks. At midnight Paul and Silas were miraculously delivered. The magistrates ordered the jailer to release them, but Paul sent back word to the magistrates, "They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privily? Nay

Free Health Clinic To Be Held Here This Week

In order to encourage parents of all children entering school in the fall to give their children a health check-up in advance of the opening of school, the District Health unit will conduct a free clinic Thursday and Friday of this week at the South Grade School from 8:30 to 5:00, for the benefit of all children entering school for the first time this fall.

CAPACITY CROWD AGAIN HEARD LEISKE

A capacity crowd heard Evangelist Leiske last Sunday night give his lecture on the Mark of the Beast and the Seal of God. It was the general expression and feeling throughout the congregation that they were receiving a real Bible explanation on the question of the Mark of the Beast. Unanimously the audience arose at the close of the lecture expressing their confidence to the Evangelist that they had heard the Bible and the Word of God.

The program for the week was changed for two evenings this week during which time the Leiske Evangelistic Party has been invited to attend the Evangelistic conference and council at the Bible Auditorium in Columbia, Mo., on Tuesday and Wednesday. In view of the fact that these two nights were dropped out, there was a special service conducted on Monday night in order to make up the lost time.

One of the main items at the Conference at Columbia will be the future work and program of the Bible Temple here in Sikeston. Definite plans are being laid to finish the interior and for the dedication of the new house of worship in our midst. The Seventh-day Adventist church has the strongest system of finance of any spiritual organization in the world. Every member and communicant of its order pays a faithful tithe into the general treasury to promote the Evangelistic program throughout the world. The Bible Temple was paid for before it was erected.

The general organization believes in the setting in operation the business policy of the Master. "Be ye not slothful in business, owe no man anything." The Evangelistic organization has followed for years the policy, "Pay as you go." A full program has been prepared for the next few weeks and is now in the hands of the printer at the Sikeston Standard and will be passed out next Thursday evening.

Evangelist Leiske says: "I am very sorry that we have to drop out Tuesday and Wednesday nights of our program this week, but our system or organization demands that we be present at the Council in Columbia. We will be back with greater courage and zeal to push the work of God forward in Sikeston, and see a strong church as a monument to the power of God."

There were 13,000 cases of suicide in India during 1934, it is revealed in a report of the Public Health Commissioner which has just been published. Four million people died from various forms of fever, 23,000 from snake bites, and at least 2,000,000 from tuberculosis.

PERENNIAL FAVORITE BLOOMS AGAIN

Strawberry shortcake is one of the harbingers of spring registered through three senses: sight, smell, and taste. Luscious crimson berries crowning a well-baked shortcake is a sight that certainly gladdens the eye, while the fragrance of the crushed berries combined with the wheaty aroma of the cake is a perfume as redolent of the season as that of hyacinths. No disappointment awaits the appetite thus stimulated, for strawberry shortcake is one of the most delicious and satisfying of all desserts.

Family tastes differ as to the precise amount of sweetening and shortening preferred, but this recipe will be found agreeable to most tastes:

Strawberry Shortcake
2 cups soft wheat flour

4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2/3 tablespoons shortening
2/3 cup milk
Strawberries
Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Cut in the shortening to the consistency of coarse meal. Add milk to form a soft dough. Pat or roll out about ½ inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Brush half the biscuits with softened butter and top with the remaining half. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Pile the hot biscuits in a napkin and bring to the table with the sliced, sweetened berries and whipped cream. Split and fill biscuits at the table.

Cut two (2 to 2½-pound) frying chickens into portions for serving. Sprinkle with juice of one-half lemon, one tablespoon salt, pepper and allow to stand in a cool place two to three hours. Combine two well beaten eggs with two tablespoons milk and brush chicken pieces thoroughly with this. Roll in one cup flour. Brown in one-fourth cup fat, then cover pan and allow chicken to cook slowly until tender, turning frequently. Approximate yield: Six portions.

Fifty-eight Nine-point Health Pins Awarded To Sikeston School Children

A summary of the Sikeston schools health program for the past school year made last week by School Nurse Mrs. Della Poe showed a total 1005 children examined, 49 who had tonsil correction in the clinic held April 29, and only 58 pupils who received Nine-point health pins.

The Nine-point health standard is a reasonable goal which is within the reach of practically every child whose parents want him to attain that goal. A Nine-point badge is an emblem signifying that the child has passed the minimum health requirements. The nine points considered are as follows:

1. Nutrition. The child's weight should be within the usual limits for height and age. Emphasis should be placed on a regular gain in weight rather than a strict adherence to average weight standards.

2. Posture. Good posture depends upon strong, well developed bones, well balanced muscles, and a courageous outlook upon life.

3. Vision. The child must pass satisfactorily the usual Snellen vision test, or wear glasses which are properly fitted. There must be no evidence of eyestrain or infected eyelids.

4. Hearing. Each ear must be tested separately with approved tests. There must be no evidence of discharge from the ears.

5. Teeth. Teeth should be reasonably clean and all cavities should be filled and gums free from infection.

6. Throat. There should be no evidence of diseased tonsils, mouth breathing or chronic discharge.

7. Diphtheria Immunization. All children should be immunized by injections of diphtheria toxoid.

8. Smallpox vaccination. The child should be vaccinated for smallpox when six months of age and this procedure should be repeated every six or seven years.

9. Birth Registration. Children born in Missouri since January 1, 1934 are entitled to a free certificate of notification of birth registration. Children born prior to that time may secure a birth certificate from the State Board of Health upon the payment of fifty cents, the fee specified by law.

Names of children receiving nine-point pins are as follows: Betty Anderson, Roger Bailey, Jr., Eugenia Blanton, Lee Austin Bowman, Paul Brewer, Peter Burns, Bob Burns, Barbara Comstock, Ann Draughan, Billy Dudley, Donald Duncan, Mahan Duncan, Billy Foley, Bobby Foley, Doris Sue Frazier, Charles French, Loraine Graber, Benny Graham, Phyllis Harrison, Betty Hirschberg, Alva Holden, William Hutters, Jimmy Johnson, Mary Ann Johnson, Sara Sue Keller, Argel Kellett, Evelyn Klein, Mary Francis Malcolm, Earl Burr Martin, Dorothy Matthews, Eleanor McClure, Tommy McClure, Bob McCord, Alexander Nifong, Betty Ann Northington, Charles Randolph, W. Miss Howard will be assisted by Mrs. Jo Ancell, soloist, and Mrs. Bess Elder as accompanist. The public is invited and the program is free, although a silver offering will be accepted at the door to cover the expense of the performance.

The entertainment is divided into two parts. An interlude consists of specialists of the latest popular songs and novelty numbers. A beautiful ballet given by the entire class from the tiny tots to the sub-debs opens the program, while the last half takes on a military trend in which the high stepping patriotic cookies glorify themselves in their uniforms of red, white and blue.

"Jelly" Litchford Says Patsy Kelly Likes Sikeston

The Standard received a letter last week from "Jelly Bean" Litchford, who is with the Shankland Stock Company at Du Quoin, Ill., stating that Patsy Kelly of movie fame was a guest of the stock company there and that she was favorably impressed by Sikeston when she passed through it the day before.

Miss Kelly and her party were driving through on a vacation trip to the East. She appeared in a team number with the show at Murphysboro on Saturday night. While in Du Quoin she was made an honorary member of the police force by Chief of Police Pyle, as well as an honorary member of the Lion's Club there.

Jelly Bean expressed a yearning for a copy of the old home town paper and requested that a copy be sent him this week at Sesser, Ill.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS FROM PARIS APPEAL

Unfortunately for husbands and children in Kansas City, the striking bakers have gone back to work. Those unfortunates never knew the delights of hot biscuits and muffins until ma had to provide them as a substitute for machine-made lightbread.

All business men hear this one from individuals they have accommodated: "I just can't pay you now because I'm having so much expense." This means they are paying cash for immediate needs instead of paying something on what they had previously bought on credit.

We sometimes think there is too much disposition to coddle first-term convicts and to look upon them as innocent victims of circumstances. Most of them are thoroughly vicious. Circuit judges always parole guilty young men who show real signs of penitence and reform. Most of them respect this leniency and give no further trouble. Only the most incorrigible sort are sent to the penitentiary. Less sympathy and more hard labor is what they need.

Well, three cheers for Sonja Heine. This little motion picture actress from Norway was offered several thousand dollars for a testimonial to the merits of a well-known make of cigarettes. But, unlike a dozen greedy and contemptible United States Senators who sold out for $1,000 apiece, Sonja spurned the offer. First, because she does not smoke cigarettes. Second, because she did not wish to recommend to others what she herself considered harmful.

We asked Bildad Botts, our eminent research expert, if he had anything further to report about the relief lists his nationwide organization had been investigating. He replied that a careful study of the 13,213,013 blanks his agents had turned in failed to show the name of a man who had deprived himself to tobacco or any women who had not been patrons of cosmetics counters or beauty shops. Asked how he accounted for this showing, Doc Botts replied that it was because such things are now considered necessities of life, along with gasoline, automobile license plates and tickets to shows. Another interesting statistic was that the blanks showed 3,001,009 men who daily dug up 15¢ for a package of cigarettes while unable to dig up 3 cents a week for the local newspaper. The lesson in all this, we suppose, is that people in hard lines practice self-denial on luxuries like newspapers and beans in order to have money with which to buy necessities like cigarettes, permanent waves, gasoline and show tickets.

"Can we have more by providing less?" We heard this question propounded at Columbia recently by a publisher who was working a lot of Anti-Roosevelt stuff into what was supposed to be a non-political speech. What he had in mind was the New Deal policy for Agriculture, the policy of limiting production to what the market could absorb at prices that are profitable to the producer. That publisher's own policy would furnish an answer to his question. He makes more by providing less. Instead of running his presses 12 hours a day and producing to capacity, as he thinks farmers should do, he runs them less than two hours a day. When he has printed all the papers for which he has orders he has the presses stopped. If he ran them twice as long he would have twice as many papers at the market could absorb. This would force him to sell his surplus at any price it would bring, which at best would be far below what it cost him. All other newspapers limit production to actual demands. So do all factories and mills and mines. This enables them to fix their own prices. It protects them from ruinous competition. All of them, however, denounce a similar policy on the farm. This, too, when they know there can be no profit in farming until there is more balance between supply and demand. The only way to create such a balance is to so limit production that the farmer, like our big newspapers and our big factories, can have more by producing less.

NEW MADRID COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT REPORT

Lime Now For Clovers Next Spring

More uniform and vigorous growing stands of red and sweet clover will be secured in New Madrid County when lime is applied six months to a year previous to the time of seeding the clover, says Leslie B. Broom, County Extension Agent. The same is also true for alfalfa.

By applying the lime several months ahead of the clover seedlings more of it is in available condition when they begin growth. An abundance of available lime in the soil increases the number of nitrogen gathering nodules which cause the formation of more nitrates in the soil, thus promoting more rapid growth in the early life of the plant. This in turn better enables the plant to withstand unfavorable weather conditions which may occur later in the season.

Lime may be applied to this year's corn, cotton or soybean land that is to be seeded to clover in 1938. It can be applied any time after the ground is plowed, either before or soon after those crops are planted. As the corn, cotton or soybeans are cultivated, the lime is thoroughly mixed with the surface soil. By applying lime on these crops this spring, it will have nearly a year to dissolve and become available for the young clover seedlings that will be seeded spring. Joe Crouthers is following this method on land planted to cotton this year. Lime was applied at the rate of two tons per acre after the ground was plowed and disked, but before it was planted to cotton.

Commercial quarries can make more prompt delivery on lime orders placed with them in the spring or early summer. With a normal crop season, and the financial aid offered by the Federal Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Program, the lime tonnage used in 1937 is likely to exceed that of 1936.

when over 400,000 tons were used. Farmers who wait until fall to place their orders with the producers of agricultural limestone may not be able to get as prompt delivery as they will on orders placed in the spring or early summer. Last year many farmers were unable to get delivery on orders placed late in the season in time to qualify for their soil building payments.

New Madrid County Farmers to Visit Experiment Field

Twenty-three New Madrid County farmers have informed the Agent that they plan to attend field day to be held at the Sikeston Experiment Field just north of Sikeston about three miles. The date for New Madrid County is Thursday morning, May 20th. No doubt there will be many others attend, who have not so indicated already. Last year there were thirty-five present.

A schedule was worked out whereby each County would have one half day to visit the field in a group. At this time representatives of the Soils & Crop Department from the College of Agriculture will be present and explain the work being carried on at the field.

Farmers are welcome and even urged to visit the field at any time, because the more use made of the field by the farmers, the more valuable it will be.

In the afternoon the group, or all those that care to, will visit the crimson clover fields of Joe Crouthers and Byrne Sherwood. Each of these were handled differently. On the Crouthers farm, three or four different conditions may be observed. These are clover seeded in the cotton middles, seeded on especially prepared land, on land which had been limed and land not limed. On the Sherwood farm, clover will be seen which was seeded on land especially prepared and that has been heavily pastured.

Anyone not being able to make this visit on the above date may do so at any time, if interested. However, you should do so soon as they will be harvesting the seed about the last week of May or first of June.

Mrs. Mary E. Allen will open a grocery store in the Wiley Brown place in Sunset Addition Saturday, May 29. This store will be known as the Sunset Union Grocery and will be a great convenience to that section.

This He Man Overlooked the Good Wife's Beans!

He Figured He Would Live To Be a Hundred

He brushed his teeth twice a day.
The doctor examined him twice a year.
He wore his rubbers when it rained.
Slept with the windows open every night.
Stuck to a diet with plenty of vegetables.
He relinquished his tonsils, and traded in several worn-out glands.
He never smoked, drank or lost his temper.
He did his daily dozen besides taking plenty of outdoor exercise.
He was all set to live to be 100.

BUT

HIS FUNERAL WILL BE HELD NEXT WEDNESDAY

He is survived by 18 specialists,

He had forgotten about trains at grade crossings.
He forgot automobile "Stop" signs.
And he forgot to buy enough insurance to pay for the good wife's beans and the mortgage on the old home.

What Owners Say About ALL-CROP HARVESTING

"SAVES MONEY"

No twine to buy, no shocking, no threshing bills, no extra men. Only a few cents an acre for tractor fuel. Costs are only a fraction of binder-thresher costs, and far less than for conventional combining.

"MORE INDEPENDENCE"

No depending on a custom rig or extra help. No long seige of trading work. You cut and thresh your own crop—at its peak in quality.

"LICKS TOUGH CROPS"

Header can be set to "shave the ground"—saves down or short crops after binder and combines fail. New type rubber-faced bar cylinder threshes "anything from birdseed to beans." Only satisfactory method of harvesting hairy vetch, lespedeza, crimson clover, etc., owners say.

"CLEANER GRAIN"

"Cleanest grain delivered to the elevator this season," is a typical comment with the All-Crop Harvester on the job. Full-width 5-foot cylinder has more than twice the average shelling area... and the oversize 32-inch by 10-foot separating rear assures big capacity.

"SOLVES SHATTERING PROBLEM"

Comments like this are typical: "The only way we could save our Alsike clover without shattering." "I saved enough more grain with my All-Crop to pay for the cost of harvesting."

"BETTER CROP ROTATION"

You can grow soil-building and erosion-prevention crops—and turn the seed into cash. Harvests all small grains, beans and seeds—more than 70 different crops.

"TAKES THE SWEAT OUT OF HARVEST"

Cutting and threshing become an easy, once-over operation. No shocking or threshing. No long hours of cooking by the women folks. More time for recreation or chores.
